We cannot comment on how each of these companies will deal with your particular case, it depends on individual circumstances. (Quotes are usually cheaper if EXCLUDING Spain, Switzerland etc.)

NEVER take the first quote, try several, prices can vary enormously.

As a general rule pre-existing medical insurance cover to European countries is much lower than for a trip to America/Canada etc. where insurance costs can be £1000 upwards. Insurance can usually be obtained, it depends on how much you are prepared to pay, but either way it will cost you more for your insurance. Some companies also have an upper age limit for cover. Be 100% honest with answers, to avoid rejection of a claim.

DO NOT cut costs or travel without pre-existing medical insurance cover. If you are taken ill abroad, just in Europe it can cost on average £15,000 to get you back home again! This is excluding hospitalisation fees where necessary, and a possibility they may not be able to treat you for your transplant or liver condition in that country. Typical cost can be £40,000 upwards. Much cheaper with specialised medical insurance!

It is also worth trying comparison websites, as going through these may give a lower quote to some of the above companies listed as opposed to going direct. Please check all possibilities for a fair quote.

PLEASE NOTE this list is provided as a general guide to insurance companies for patients with pre-existing medical conditions. The Liver Support Group do not have any association with any of the companies listed, it is provided purely as a guide for you to obtain quotes for your medical condition.

Some banks and building societies also offer free or discounted travel insurance with accounts, please make sure that you are covered for all your medical conditions with them before travelling. They may not cover transplants or your medical condition.

VACCINATIONS

Please be aware if you need vaccinations for your holiday, some vaccines you may not be allowed to have after having a transplant. ALWAYS check with the liver Co-ordinators for current updates.

EHIC CARD

The European Health Insurance Card may cover you for some minor pre medical existing conditions, but for Transplants you still need PRE MEDICAL insurance cover. Do not travel without adequate insurance cover! Please check the dates on the EHIC cards they do have an end date and need to be renewed (FREE).
